

Proud to be an American!

By: Rich Woldt – The Risk Management Learning Center CEO

Whether you're a Mexican, an American, or a little of both, it had to make you proud, when Enrique Pena Nieto, Mexico's President, and Donald Trump, our next President, stepped center stage, shook hands, and vowed to end the Mexican drug cartels.

Our promise? To admit Barack and Hillary were wrong to sell weapons to their Mexican drug-lords (Fast and Furious). Weapons subsequently used to murder government agents on both sides of the border. Trump also promised Enrique, he'd shut down the US sanctuary cities Hillary and Russ Feingold are supporting to get themselves elected.

It had to make you proud, when Donald and Enrique highlighted joint ventures they'll launch to bring manufacturing jobs back to the Western Hemisphere. Who'll pay for the wall? Who cares? Working together, they'll create shovel ready jobs that'll employ the unemployed on both sides of the border.

They'll build the wall, using the same CCC (Civilian Conservation Corp) strategies we used to pull ourselves out of the Great Depression. It'll be built by the same organized labor and skilled union tradesmen who built dams along the Colorado River, turning our western states from a flood plain into rich agricultural land that now supports thousands of "Mexican-American" families.

It costs our country $113 billion a year to house, feed, and educate the illegal aliens Hillary and Russ want to hide in our sanctuary cities. Do the math. Just keeping the two of them out of Washington, will more than pay for the wall, secure our borders, rebuild the economy in both countries, and end the war on terror.

Let's give Donald Trump and Enrique Nieto a chance!
